

Edie Rasmussen
Professor in the School of Library, Archival and Information Studies,
University of British Columbia'
Vancouver, BC, Canada

Edie Rasmussen is currently a Professor in the School of Library, Archival and Information Studies at the University of British Columbia, Vancouver, BC, Canada. Prior to joining UBC she was a Professor in the School of Information Sciences, University of Pittsburgh, Pittsburgh, USA. She has also held appointments at the School of Library and Information Studies at Dalhousie University, Nova Scotia, Canada, the School of Library Science at the Institiut Teknologi MARA, Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, and visiting positions at Nanyang Technological University, Singapore and Victoria University of Wellington, New Zealand. Dr. Rasmussen has been active in the Information Retrieval and Digital Library research communities, serving as a Chair for the ACM SIGIR, ACM DL, ACM/IEE JCDL, and ASIS&T conferences. She served as President of the American Society for Information Science & Technology, President of the Canadian Council of Information Studies/Conseil Canadien des science de l'information, and Co-convenor of the Council of Deans and Directors of the Association for Library and Information Science Education.. Her current research interests include indexing and information retrieval in text and multimedia databases and digital libraries. She is currently on a year of leave to Norway, Abu Dhabi, Singapore and Australia