

Dr. Naren Aggarwal

Editorial Director at Springer Nature for Books in Clinical Medicine,

Biomedicine & Life Sciences - Asia

Dr. Naren Aggarwal is currently the editorial director of books in Asia responsible for developing titles in medicine, biomedicine and life sciences. He has been with Springer Nature group since 2011 and has been in the publishing industry for the past two decades. His key areas of responsibilities are to mentor editorial teams in Asia, build partnerships with academic entities and engage with experts in the academia to track the developments in their respective fields. His underlying areas of interest are developing textbooks and series, acquire open-access books and medical videos, and engage and work with new book authors. He likes to follow the trends in publishing that are going to influence scholarly publishing in future.